LOST GIRLS.

The San Francisco Chronicle, in alluding to lost girls, editorially says: "San Francisco seems to have been visited with a novel epidemic, that of lost girls. Almost every daily paper now has an account of one or more girls who are lost, and then the hue and cry is aroused, and in a few days the stray lamb comes home, or is brought home, and the community resumes its accustomed serenity, maybe for a whole day, and then another girl is reported as lost."

"It will be observed that the lost girls are generally of such an age that they could not be lost unless they wanted to be. A California girl, of fourteen or fifteen, is not going to be lost except with her own consent and by her own exertions. In one recent case, where the disappearance was complete and almost miraculous the lost girl was found comfortably housed in Oakland, and without any notion of coming home or of clearing up the mystery which attended her disappearance. In another case, my lady had quietly gone to a neighbor's and concealed herself there because she was restive under home restraint and control and wanted to get away from her parents."

"But there is a class of lost girls who do not fare as well as the two to whom allusion has been made. It is an unfortunate and a miserable class, and it is to be feared that it is growing in numbers. We refer to the class which, led away by vanity and love of admiration, falls a victim to the wiles of the seducer, and awakes from a dream of freedom from restraint only to find itself doomed to the most helpless and abject servitude. These lost girls—lost indeed, and frequently past all hope of redemption—have, in many cases, chiefly themselves to thank for their downfall. They grow up impatient of authority, careless of reproach or warning, and all too ready to listen to any one who will promise their emancipation from what they blindly fancy to be domestic slavery. They listen too willingly to flattery and adulation, and cultivate their vanity at the expense of their morals. The consequences are inevitable."

"On the other hand the parents of these unhappy girls are not wholly free from blame. If a little girl is bright, pretty and attractive, a fond father or a doting mother never loses an opportunity to trumpet the praises of the dainty darling, often in the hearing of the object of their idolatry. They themselves spoil the child, and then are horrified to find that the bad seed that they have sown has fallen into fruitful soil and springs up so rank as to choke down and kill out the seeds of modesty, humility and discretion."

"We are accustomed to plume ourselves upon our superiority to our fathers and grandfathers, and look upon their ways as antiquated and uncouth; but in the matter of bringing up children we might take a leaf from their book with advantage to us and to those whose care has been committed to us. There are nowadays, very few boys and no girls. We have young gentlemen and young ladies, so-called; but the race of boys and girls seems extinct. As soon as a girl's dress reaches her boot-tops, she fancies herself a young lady, puts her hair in a wad on the top or back of her head, dons a bustle and pull back dress, and is hugely insulted at being called a little girl. She has her flirtations and her love affairs, promenades the streets with all the assurance of a veteran, is not averse to making acquaintances of the other sex in almost any way, and recounts her 'mashes' to an admiring ring of her fellows, who burn to emulate the success of their promising playmate. What wonder that some morning such a girl is reported as 'lost,' and that when she is found, her heart-broken parents are tempted to wish that she had hidden her shame and disgrace beneath the waters of the bay?"

"If parents would preserve the souls and bodies of their daughters, let them keep them children as long as they can. Let them not be so much concerned about the 'sensitive natures' of their girls, but maintain the proposition that so long as they are not too old to do wrong they are not too old to be punished. Let them insist on being obeyed, and we shall have fewer cases of lost girls."

Standard Nerve Food a healthful drink. Geo. Becker, agent, Reno, Nevada.

A RAILROAD JANUS.

W. H. Mills, Land Agent for the Central Pacific Railroad, in reference to the Land Grant to that road, is emphatically a Janus. When any proposition comes up that apparently conflicts with the right to the title of that road, to any of the odd sections, or any part of them he smiles and says, "hands off;" the Central Pacific Railroad has vested rights; has muniments of title; has property in all odd sections, which the law recognizes and the Courts protect. The smiling part of this Central Pacific Janus was plainly seen in his letter to R. L. Fulton, Esq., bearing date of June 22, 1887, to which he appended the instructions of Hon. H. P. Henderson, Judge of the First Judicial District, Territory of Utah, in the case of the Central Pacific Railroad vs. L. B. Adams, et al, in which the Court said: "As a matter of law, that the said acts (referring to the Acts of Congress of July 1, 1862, and July 2, 1864) are within the constitutional power of Congress to pass, and, that by them, upon filing with the Secretary of the Interior, a map of definite location of the line of railroad, showing the routes, the title to the lands, and all of the odd numbered sections on either side of said railroad within twenty miles thereof, not mineral or saline, and not, at the time of said filing, sold, reserved, or otherwise disposed of by the United States, and to which a pre-emption or homestead claim that had not attached, passed and vested in the Central Pacific Railroad Company, of California, and to its successor in interest."

This is W. H. Mills, of the Central Pacific Railroad, as he appeared in June, 1887, when he was trying, through his sub-agents, to force sheepmen and cattlemen to lease these odd sections and thus pour revenue into the coffers of that corporation. Look at the frown of the Janus in August, 1887. How strikingly it contrasts with the smile of June. The spirit of the National and State constitutions advocate equal taxation. Washoe county recognizing that spirit asks tribute from the Central Pacific on all its property. This corporation, that has always done all in its power to sap all vitality out of the State, and its President indicating if rates are not raised in Utah and Nevada, the corporation will be bankrupt, through this railroad Janus, W. H. Mills, the land agent, in a letter to C. H. Stoddard, our Assessor, bearing date of August 29, 1887, referring to the fact that he, Stoddard, had placed 147,000 acres of the company's surveyed land on the tax duplicate of Washoe county, says: "I wish to notify you that we (meaning the Central Pacific Railroad) deny the taxableness of this property. The Company has an equitable interest in the land, but it is an untaxable equity."

"Untaxable equity" is creditable to the Janus; but under the light of the Act of Congress of July, 1886, an "untaxable equity," so far as the Central Pacific Railroad, and the surveyed odd sections within its limits are concerned, will prove an "obnoxious desuetude"—or in the language of old Bill Allen, a d—d barren idealism.

PERMANENT PROSPERITY.

The Silver State remarks: The assessment roll just completed shows an increase of over $309,000 in the taxable property of Humboldt county in the last year. This is an excellent showing, and gratifying to every Humboldt, as it indicates growing and permanent prosperity. Taking the fact that the county lost some two and three-quarters miles of railroad by the recent survey into consideration, the increase almost equals that of Washoe county, which boasts of a boom that has considerably enhanced the value of real estate in Reno and its vicinities.

This increase has been attained under adverse circumstances, as Humboldt, being about equidistant from Ogden and San Francisco, has to pay about the highest transportation rates of any county on the line of the transcontinental road on mining and agricultural implements and merchandise from abroad, and on the shipment of its products to market. The railroad, however, is evincing a more liberal policy lately, and the material reduction made in the rates on coal and lumber is doubtless the precursor of corresponding reductions in rates on other articles.

The natural resources of the county are varied. Its mountain ranges, scarcely without exception, contain gold, silver, copper, lead and antimony mines, and furnish excellent summer pasturage for herds and flocks. Its sagebrush plains are fertile, and where water can be procured for irrigation, as productive as any of the Valley of the Mississippi, while salt and sulphur are found in barren deserts. Its climate is not surpassed for healthfulness. Malaria disease, the plague of the Western States, and consumption, the scourge of New England, are not generated here and the colds of Winter and heat of Summer are rarely excessive. With such natural advantages, Humboldt is destined to increase in wealth and population, and though to-day ranking third in taxable property and sixth in population, when Idaho is annexed and a railroad is built from Winnemucca north, it will equal any county in the State in both.

The Carson Tribune runs the Journal's article "The Coming State," and kindly credits it to the Elko Free Press.

Go to Osburn & Shoemaker's and try a glass of "Moxie" and soda, the nerve food.

A FINE RESIDENCE.

Another Handsome Building on Fowning's Addition.

Fowning's Addition is building up rapidly, and the structures that are going up are attractive and homelike. Dr. Bergstein's residence, now being built on the corner of Chestnut and Second street, is one of the best arranged homes in Reno, and will, when completed be an ornament to that portion of our town. Though not as conspicuous for fancy trimmings as other dwellings that have been erected here, it has that solid, comfortable, homelike appearance that makes it attractive. The plan of the building is excellent, and demonstrates that the Doctor understands how a home should be arranged. In the first place he obtained ample building room by purchasing two lots, and located his residence so that he could have a fine door yard which he intends to improve with ornamental shade trees, shrubbery, etc. The house fronts on Second street, and is conspicuous for the neat, two-story, square bay window that occupies that portion of the building. A broad flight of steps will lead to the front entrance which will open into a spacious hallway. On the right of the hall is a large, double parlor, the two rooms connected by a neat arch. The front parlor is 16½ feet wide by 20 in length, exclusive of the bay window. This room will be elegantly finished. The walls are of diagonal boarding, and will be lathed and plastered, making it equally as warm as though the walls were of mason work. The floor is laid with three-inch Oregon pine, and the room will be heated by a neat fire place surmounted by a marble mantel. The large bay window affords ample light, and will make the parlor bright and cheerful. The extension, or back parlor is 17x18 feet, and will be finished on the same elaborate plan as its companion. The dining room, which is a model of architecture, is separated from the back parlor by folding doors of exquisite design. This room is 17 feet square exclusive of the bay window overlooking Chestnut street. The same care has been displayed in finishing the dining room that is noticeable in the parlor, and it is also most conveniently arranged. A door opens from it into the front hall, and there is also a rear entrance from the back porch. The large window makes it as bright as day. In one side is a cozy china closet so arranged that only the panel door is exposed to view. The kitchen is immediately back of the dining room, and is, without question, a model of convenience. In one end of it there is a large pantry containing a sink, while underneath is a splendid cellar 14 feet wide by 20 feet long. A stairway leads from the kitchen to a room above that has been built expressly for the cook. Three fine windows let in the light of day, while gas will perform that labor at night. There are three fine rooms on the ground floor, exclusive of the kitchen. A grand stairway leads from the front hall to the second floor where there is another hall extending almost the entire length of the building. The front room on this floor is 15 feet square, exclusive of the bay window, and also an alcove that is 10 by 12 feet in dimension. All the rooms up stairs are to be used for bed rooms and are especially adapted for that purpose. The alcove adjoining the front room contains a large window which opens on the front porch. Back of the front room and on the right of the hall is another bed room 17 feet square, while on the opposite side of the hall is another one of equal size. Both rooms have the indispensable closet, and each room contains three windows. At the end of the hall is located the bath room, which is large and is to be furnished in the most complete manner. The tub is to be full two feet in depth, and will be furnished with hot and cold water carried through pipes of galvanized iron. Nearly all bath rooms are devoid of windows but Dr. Bergstein has ignored an established custom and placed a window in this one, a very sensible idea. Every room in the house is well finished and are all furnished with water and gas pipes, windows and high ceilings, etc. The gas lights will all be what are termed center drops thereby lessening the danger of fire. The house could not be better arranged for a comfortable home and is finished up in every particular in a workmanlike manner. If more room should ever be required two more good bed rooms could be made in the attic at very small expense. Every bed room will contain a wash stand and under each one will be placed a zinc bowl to catch any leakage that may take place and the water, so collected, will be carried to the waste pipe and thence to the sewer. A 40 gallon boiler for heating water will be supplied with that article from a tank built in the attic having a capacity of 170 gallons, which is to be kept full at all times. All the pipes that run through the building are placed between the walls and a cut off is so arranged that every particle of water can be turned off from the pipes in cold weather.

The roof is what is called a deck-roof, with slants in three different directions and is to be painted a stone-blue, the fancy shingles in red. Over the second story porch a beautiful dome will be built, giving the building a unique appearance. The cornice will be handsome, and all the supports will be in the shape of fancy brackets. The body of the building will be painted a Vienna drab, and the trimmings will be in dark red. Mr. G. E. Holesworth is the architect, and every particle of the labor has been done by the day, and has not been slighted in any particular. When the finishing touches are put on, and the house is ready for inspection, the Doctor need not be ashamed to take the most aesthetic person through it. It is a fine home; an ornament to our town, and a structure that its owner may be proud of.

A BAD BRIDGE.—There is a bridge on Fifth street between Sierra and West that is in a dangerous condition, and unless it is looked after very soon will be the cause of an accident. Yesterday Dr. Lewis drove over it in a buggy containing his niece and a little child, and the horse stepped into a hole in the bridge and would have thrown the girl and child out if the Doctor had not caught them. The plank is rotten and should be repaired before someone is hurt.

THE ST. ELMO.—This nicely furnished resort will be open this evening from 6 to 8 o'clock expressly for the ladies who would like to view the place, after which it will be thrown open to the public. This is one of the finest finished public resorts in Nevada and is well worth seeing. The ladies who visit it this evening will be shown every courtesy by the gentlemanly proprietors. Remember the time between 6 and 8 o'clock.

A BIG SALE.—On Tuesday Theodore Winters, Washoe's solid man, sold his 1,000-acre tract of land, six miles south of Sacramento, for the snug sum of $100,000 cash. Several parties were interested in the purchase.

WOOL GROWERS' MEETING.—The annual meeting of the Nevada, Eastern Oregon and Idaho Wool Growers' Association will be held at Winnemucca on Saturday, September 17th.

The Idaho annexation bubble has "busted." That Territory wants to place her own star on the flag by going into partnership with Montana. Nevada is now a "State of magnificent distances" and requires no more territory. There is plenty of room in it now for the newly elected Senator, without chopping off Idaho.

—Lon. Hamilton passed through to Santa Monica last night to join his family.

—E. R. Pohemus, of California, came to Reno Tuesday and departed for Carson yesterday.

—Wm. James, of Gold Hill, passed through to the Centennial mine in California last night.

—Charles Suro, eldest son of Adolph Suro, of tunnel fame, is a guest at the Tallac House, Lake Tahoe.

—Abe Ritchie, the old mountain man and trapper of the Sierras, has gone crazy and has been sent to Stockton.

—Attorney Torreyson came down from Carson Tuesday night to meet B. F. Tuttle and wife, of Auburn, California.

—Mrs. Senator Stewart accompanied her daughter, Mrs. Fox, as far as Reno last night. Mrs. Fox goes to the East, and Mrs. Stewart will return to Carson.

—The company only plays one night here.

—An Express Office Robbed.—Early Monday morning E. C. Cassaway, a clerk in Wells, Fargo & Co's office, at Marysville, Cal., was found lying on the floor in a bedroom connected with the office, which he occupied in order to send out mountain stage express during certain nights of the week. He was unconscious and held in his right hand the keys of the money safe. Other employees who found him say that when first touched in moving him to the house he exclaimed: "Don't shoot; I'll open the safe." J. B. Fuller, the company's agent, found that the safe had been robbed and very near $600 taken from it, but owing to the curious construction of a package in which was $3,000 worth of greenbacks, it had been overlooked.

—The Silver Star Mill.—This mill is running steadily, and finds a ready market for all the flour it turns out. At the present time they are grinding between forty and fifty barrels daily, and have but little on hand. The flour produced at this mill has a wide reputation and is without doubt, among the finest made in the State. Only the very best wheat is ground, and close attention is paid to the grinding, and choice family flour is the result. Wheat is coming in from California and Utah, and small consignments of Nevada new wheat are also coming to market. They are also turning out a fine article of corn meal, crushing barley, etc.

—Anxious to become a State.—Senator Hearst, with Governor Stevenson and Delegate Dubois, recently held a conference at Shoshone, Idaho, regarding the proposed enlargement of the boundaries of Idaho, with reference to Statehood, which Idaho expects soon to demand. Senator Stewart's move to annex a portion of Idaho to Nevada has entirely collapsed. At the conference it was suggested that the Idaho line be extended northward through Montana so as to take in the counties of Beaver Head and Missoula. This is the proper thing for the people of Idaho to do, and it will be more beneficial to them than annexation to Nevada.

—A Large Casting.—The largest wheel ever cast on the Comstock was made Monday at the Union Iron Works. It was a pulley, to be used for the purpose of transmitting power from the water wheels on the Suro tunnel level to the mills on the surface. It was six feet in diameter, forty inches wide on the face, and weighed 6,500 pounds. There was a great crowd present at the casting, which was thought by Matt Rhein, the foreman, to be a success in every way. It will take two or three days for the casting to cool sufficiently to be taken from the mould. So says the Enterprise.

—The Los Angeles Method.—H. Z. Osborne, president of the Los Angeles Evening Express Publishing Company, recently sold a piece of property in Los Angeles for $71,000 for which he paid but $39,000 a few days before. An exchange says that when a middle lot in a block in that town is sold, the band plays one tune. When a corner lot is sold it plays two. When Osborne sold his, the band played all day. Osborne is now playing for another tract.

—Seligman.—The White Pine News says Seligman, on the west side of White Pine Mountain, is now booming. A late arrival from there tells us that 80 men are at work in the mines, and a great many more engaged in making roads, building houses, etc. The mines are looking well. In one of them a ledge 30 feet in width is exposed, the ore from which goes $100 per ton, with a large percentage of lead.

—The Indian Hop Pickers.—Capt. Sam says there are 35 Washoe Indians now in the California hop fields, and more will go immediately. A large crowd of Digger Indians are also at work. The Washoes like the work and say they will come back with "heaps of money."

—New House.—T. D. Parkinson, Manager of the Nevada Land and Cattle Association, intends to build a residence on Squaw Creek. Mr. G. E. Holesworth is the architect, and will supervise the work.

—SARK AND DOOR FACTORY.—This establishment has been doing a rushing business this season and rapidly increasing trade has rendered it necessary to increase the capacity of the plant. The large addition to the building is now completed with the exception of the upper floor, and the machinery will soon be put in place. The works have been running full handed all season and have found a ready market for all the goods manufactured.

JACK ELLIOTT'S INVESTMENT.—Jack Elliott, foreman of the V. & T. flume yards, bought 52 acres of land near Santa Rosa, Cal., last Winter for $12,500. Yesterday morning he sold the property for $52,000—a clean pick-up of $39,500. The Carson Appeal boldly asserts that there is more money to be made in trading in California real estate than in running a newspaper in Carson.

A MINERAL COUNTRY.—In urging the building of a railroad to Nevada, the Salt Lake Tribune says: "Fifty mining districts with capabilities indicated by the Eureka Consolidated, the Raymond & Ely, the Northern Belle, the Standard, the Bodie, the Horn Silver, the Eureka Hill and the Ontario, may be reached by rail from this city. The inference is obvious and unavoidable."

A MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL.—The old Trustees of the Glendale School District embroglio have made a motion for a new trial. It will be remembered that the Court recently ousted the old Board, and held that the Trustees elected under the law of last Winter were duly elected, and authorized to conduct the school affairs.

STANDARD WORKS.—Mr. W. J. Harley, representing P. F. Collier, publisher of New York, is in Reno taking orders for Shakespeare's works in eight volumes, Waverley Novels, 9 vols., Dickens, 6 vols., Milton's "Paradise Lost," Dante's "Inferno," plush albums and Bibles. The public have every advantage of getting any of these works delivered complete on payment of $2, the balance of payments to be collected at $1 per month. The gentleman is stopping at the Golden Eagle.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. feb. 21-sf f-1v

What Is It

That produces that beautifully soft complexion and leaves no trace of its application or injurious effects? Winslow's Soothing Syrup accomplishes all this, and is pronounced by ladies of taste and refinement to be the most delightful toilet article ever produced. Warranted harmless and matchless. S. J. FODDERSON & CO. ny 24-lyr Agents Va St., Reno, Nev.

—This grand and successful melodrama will be produced at the Nevada Theater with the original scenery and mechanical effects next Monday evening for one night only. The Beaumont Comedy Co. played in Oakland last week at the Oakland Theater to very successful business. The Oakland Times, of August 23rd, speaking of this Company and play says: "Harbor Lights" opened last night at the Oakland Theater before a full house. This piece is a sensational melodrama of the style of "Shadows of a Great City" and is intensely interesting. Much of its success is due to its marvelous scenic effects, which are reproduced here exactly as given at the Alcazar. The ship scene in the second act and a wonderful mechanical change in the fourth act are worthy of special mention. Mr. Charles Edmunds as David Kingsley, Fred Cooper as Tom Dosater, and George Woodthorpe as Dora drew frequent applause. This piece will run during the rest of the week.

—The company only plays one night here.
